

UNIVERSITY OF STIRLING

Environment Camp

Environmental Valuation Methods for Ecosystem Services

4-6 September 2012

University of Stirling

Sponsored by:

The European Investment Bank & The Scottish Institute for Research in Economics

PROGRAMME

Day 1 (Tuesday, September 4th)

9.00–9.15	Welcome and organizational matters
9.15–10.15	KEYNOTE LECTURE A behavioural economics examination of information and uncertainty in stated preference valuation	Prof. Nick Hanley (University of Stirling)
10.15–10.30	BREAK
10.30–11.00	A human well-being approach for assessing the value of natural land areas	Angela Kopmann (Kiel Institute for the World Economy)
11.00–11.30	The importance of equity in the design of PES schemes	Nonka Markova (Brandenburg University of Technology Cottbus)
11.30–12.00	Towards an improved methodology for the valuation of ecosystem services	Jeremy DeValck (KU Leuven)
12.00–12.30	Investigating embedding effects in valuation of forest environmental goods	Fatehmeh Bakhtiari (University of Copenhagen)
	SIRE LUNCH
13.30–14.30	KEYNOTE LECTURE What's exciting me in non-market valuation	Dr. Brett Day (University of East Anglia)
	BREAK
15.00–15.30	Public perception of deep-sea protection	Niels Jobstvogt (University of Aberdeen)
15.30–16.00	Valuing the benefits of the Marine Strategy Framework Directive	Daniel Norton (National University of Ireland, Galway)
16.00–16.30	Socio-economic value of the marine service of gas and climate regulation	Eleanor Carter-Silk (University of East Anglia)
19.30	Dinner at Birds and Bees

Day 2 (Wednesday, September 5th)

9.15–10.15	KEYNOTE LECTURE Linking fisheries approaches and household utility models for improved resource management	Prof. E.J. Milner-Gulland (Imperial College London)
10.15–10.30	BREAK
10.30–11.00	Non-monetary valuation of ecosystem services and the perceptions of stakeholders at different scales in Guyana	Lisa Ingwall (Royal Holloway, University of London)
11.00–11.30	Feeding birds: An investigation into motivations of privately providing public good and engaging with natural environment	Mike Brock (University of East Anglia)
11.30–12.00	Costs and benefits of improved drinking water quality provision in rural protected areas	Olivia Rendon Thompson (University of Leeds)
12.00–12.30	Chronic threats to pollination services: Does diversity reduce risk?	Ciaran Ellis (University of Stirling)
	LUNCH
13.30–14.30	KEYNOTE LECTURE Quasi-experiments in non-market valuation and regulatory analysis	Prof. Laura Taylor (North Carolina State University)
	BREAK
15.00–15.30	Contingent valuation technique of payment for environmental service in Blue Nile Basin	Befikadu Alemayehu Legesse (Brandenburg University of Technology Cottbus)
15.30–16.00	Internal consistency in double bounded dichotomous choice contingent valuation	Claudia Aravena Novielli (Trinity College Dublin)
16.00–16.30	Contingent valuation on water source protection in China	Cheng Wen (University of Leeds)
19.00–23.00	Ceilidh (including buffet)

Day 3 (Thursday, September 6th)

9.00-13.00

Walk up to Dumyat

END OF ENVIRONMENT CAMP